

The Ravenmaster

Personality/appearance:

He is known as Raven. He prefers to keep that way...it's simpler that way. He empathize with animal so greatly that he cannot simply understand humans all that well even if he is human himself. His hands have a distinct shape of claws, but yet, it is a hand. His face has distinct shape of an eagle. His body is often concealed by his massive robe and long hair that seemingly flow like a bird would fly.

The ravenmaster simply do not get along with other people very well. Slightly hostile to human...generally friendly to elves...generally friendly to any lycanthropes, even though he is not one himself, but for some reason, he's able to connect to lycanthropes or animals of any kind, especially birds of the sky: Ravens, eagles, hawks...any kind of them. Almost always, a raven would be seen with Raven, sometimes perching on his shoulder, or sometimes flying high above him, watching for anything unusual. Suffice to say, Raven himself refuse to touch anything of technology, such as guns, or computer, or anything like that.

Raven tend to eat what his bird kill for him, often cooking it first, but sometimes, he would eat it raw, just like a bird would eat the food.

Attributes:

Strength: Mediocre

Agility: Good

Body: Mediocre

Will: Good

Perception: Superb

Skills:

Animal Empathy: Good

Psychic link with animal: Good

Psychic link with raven: Superb/Legendary

Human Relations: Terrible (Will not talk or communicate with human until it's necessary)

Using Technology: Terrible (will try only if forced)

Any combat: Poor (will avoid combat, and uses birds to help him escapes.)

Gift:

Nature Link—whenever Raven is outside in nature, he will automatically channel into the nature itself, and try to communicate with Mother Nature to find out what is going on around him.

Fault:

Abhorrence to technology: It's like a cross to a vampire. 'nuff said.

Utter Disdain for human/dwarves: They destroy the nature itself, and they must be...excluded from the joys of nature itself. Exception: These who create stories or tales, but Raven will exclude them until they prove themselves.

Equipment:

Robes

Dagger

Flint and rocks (for fire)